Why:
Without specific protocols within a specific recovery structure most people become dissatisfied, puzzled, and frustrated. With these helpful guidelines we hope to obviate those built-in challenges. At http://corepsych.com details matter.

How:
First consider these essential three steps:

1. Test: We don't write for supplement prescriptions unless we have clear data and meaningful results from specific labs noted for their ability to delineate molecular and cellular physiology imbalances. http://corepsych.com/tests

2. Consistency: With consistent supplement practice [and medication as indicated] outlined below, one can expect improvements anywhere from one week to sometimes two months. Chronic disorders require a consistent approach over time.

3. Feedback: If you or your family is not improving we need to set the time aside to investigate more thoroughly what the reasons for treatment failure are.
   a. As a means of coping with potentially unpredictable results we almost routinely reorder testing about four months after starting supplements to evaluate progress.
   b. Side effects often indicate reasons for further inquiry and adjustment and those can only take place through your good personal feedback. Let us know: http://corepsych.com/appointments

Detailed Instructions: Coding on supplements/nutrients on the CoreNutrient website and on your personal Onpatient medical record at https://www.onpatient.com/ provide uncomplicated, easy to remember routines to keep your progress on track.

The Prescription Code: Directions For Taking Supplements
1t consists of four numbers: the first one is for breakfast, the second one is for lunch the third one is for dinner and the fourth is for bedtime.

- 1001 = 1 after breakfast, none at noon, none at supper, and 1 before bed.
• 2002 = 2 pills on that same schedule, 0003 = 3 before bed
• A minus sign such as -1000 indicates it will work more effectively if taken on an empty stomach. This one indicates 1 pill on an empty stomach before breakfast. ‘Empty’ is best .5 hour before breakfast and 1 hour after any meal if you forget.
• Remember: you will not be harmed if you don’t follow these plans exactly - except you may have more stomach upset on those to be taken after meals if you don’t eat. If occasionally you forget to take it before the meal: take it after the meal anyway.

Biocidin & Candida
Of all our protocols the ones we use for the treatment for Candida with Biocidin [and other products that significantly address biofilm challenges] are the most difficult to understand and the most frequently misunderstood. Video details: http://corepsych.com/candida

• GI Detox is encouraged for the first week to avoid the uncomfortable Herxheimer reaction [toxins due to the death of the Candida]. The dosage pattern for G.I. Detox to start is -100-1 on an empty stomach - to have direct contact with the toxins and, yes, detox before dosing with Biocidin.
• In the second week Biocidin is added either in the capsule or LSF form to kill Candida and break down biofilm. Video details: http://corepsych.com/biofilm
• Because of the increased possibility of a Herxheimer [Herx] reaction with too rapid increased dosing strategies we start with -1000 the first week at the dosed given at same time the G.I. Detox is given – on an empty stomach.
• Each week an additional Biocidin dosage is added slowly to prevent Herx reactions from increasing too fast and killing too many, releasing toxins:
• Week 2 = -100-1, Week 3 = -100-2, Week 4 = -200-2 ...and stay on that dose unless side effects occur – whereupon you would reduce the dose, but do stay on the supplements because they obviously are working – too well.

CoreNutrients Dispensary
Your next step is to sign in to the CoreNutrients Dispensary – Link: http://corepsych.com/nutrients. There you will find specific protocols for each of the supplement indications from the data. Your best results will occur if you follow the specific recommendations.
• I’ve organized each of the specific treatment templates to address the most important nutrient supplements in an order of urgency.
• Your best outcome will occur if you take them all. If you can only afford a few they are organized so that the most essential nutrients are at the top of each template.
• Templates are listed alphabetically. Undermethylation: last on that list.
• More specific templates will be added over time.
• CoreNutrients software provides targeted supplements, helps stay on track with reminders built in.
• Feedback on your recovery process: Send us a note thru http://corepsych.com/appointments for suggestions or challenges along the way. That written record will help all of us track and reply to your concerns.
